Q: Cannot access folder within K8S Pod running inside a JNI container I am trying to run jni container with a pod (k8s) which in turn contains a folder. The folder structure looks like this:

├── .wampp ─┬── docker ─┬── docker-entrypoint.sh ─┬── etc ─┬── ip.cfg ─┬── names.txt ─┬── myapp ─┬── Application.java ─┬── app-component.xml ─┬── jnidispatch.jar ─┬── k8s ─┬── k8s-api-java-client.jar ─┬── k8s-resources-java-client.jar ├── kubernetes-client-java.jar ─┬── spring-boot-starter.jar ─┬── webapp ─┬── web.xml
├── WEB-INF ─┬── resources ─┬── css ─┬── js ─┬── styles ─┬── webappcontext.xml ─┬── web.xml

The name.txt in the kubernetes directory has this value: NAME: myapp DOMAIN: app-applications ADDRESS: someAddress This structure is used in the jni container to create the pod. This part works fine, I can access the container. However, I cannot access the folder within the container that is created in the kubernetes pod. I have tried to set the docker-entrypoint.sh file to /home/jnidispatch/myapp/k8s/k8s-api-java-client.jar. This way the docker container works fine. When I created the k8s pod, I used JAVA_OPTS to add: JAVA_OPTS='-Djava.
